Veterinaria Pratica Equina

The continuing education magazine for horse vets

Veterinaria Pratica Equina is the quarterly magazine of continuing education for vets who deals with equine medicine and for the students of the last years of veterinary medicine who wants to use it as a study tool or as a basis for their future professional activity.

In each issue, readers will find original articles and works translated by prestigious international journals, with the most recent updates on equine medicine in all its many components: from internal medicine, surgery, sports medicine, to behavior and well-being of the horse. To complete each publication, an international review with abstracts of articles published in equine medicine journals all over the world.
